

I Been Working

I woke up this morning about half past ten

My baby shouted: "Come back to bed again

You ain't been doing me since I don't know when

And if you go I'll find another friend"

Well, I been working this morning

And I don't wanna work no more

She said: "Honey, I know you're past your youth

But you being tired is a lie and not the truth

You may feel worn down, torn out or confused

But what you got it ain't broken just used"

Well, I been working this morning

And I don't wanna work no more

She said: "Honey, I know you know that golden rule

Leavin' means leaving it up to some other fool

You may think you're the man with a golden tool

But leaving me cold could never be cool"

Well, I been working this morning

And I don't wanna work no more

She said: "Honey, you know I know a lot of men

And if you leave, I'm gonna go to one of them

Right down the street, I'll find another friend

So – you might wanna consider coming back to bed again"

Well, I been working this morning

And I don't wanna work no more

Well, I been working this morning

And I don't wanna work no more

Well, I been working this morning

And I don't wanna work no more